Bragging Writes

We take pride in the things that Commonwealth Honors College students, faculty, and staff are doing. Read all about these things here!

Entertainment and Education with Kate Leddy
According to the National Association of Anorexia Nervosa and Associated Disorders, at least 30 million people in the United States, of all ages, genders, and races, suffer from... Read More

Remembering Repressed History
History is just that, a story. And before any story gets published, it is edited. Sentences are refined, and sometimes whole chunks of the story may be cropped from the narrative... Read More

A Helping Hand for the Honors Thesis
It is a well-known fact that all CHC students have to eventually complete an honors thesis or project. It is something that looms over us all, but for two and a half years, we can... Read More
Professor Manisha Sinha Discusses Slave Resistance and the Making of American Abolition
During a recent Black History Month Celebration event, Professor Manisha Sinha (Draper Professor of Early American History at the University of Connecticut), discussed her...  [Read More]

Launching an International Career
As an undergraduate studying psychology at UMass Amherst, alumna Rebecca Owen ’12 did not expect to end up at the Middlebury Institute for International Studies (MIIS) in Monterey...  [Read More]

Compassion from the Core
Denise came to UMass Amherst in her 20s, arriving from a summer job. There she had chosen a "camp name," a standard practice at Girl Scouts camps. After noticing the apple core...  [Read More]

A CHC Student's Focus on Food Recovery
Four nights a week, a group of students gathers at Worcester Dining Commons right as it closes. Just before 8:45 p.m., Commonwealth Honors College sophomore Rachel Stelmach ’19...  [Read More]
Discovering Du Bois
When first-year Honors student Abby Armstrong arrived at UMass, she knew W.E.B. Du Bois as the namesake behind the university’s iconic 26-story library. Now, since thoroughly... Read More

Rising Researchers
By Karen J. Hayes  The Rising Researcher program celebrates undergraduate students who excel in research, scholarship, or creative activity. This year, all six Rising Researchers... Read More

Paws for a Cause
Cali sits in the lobby of the Integrated Sciences Building wearing her red vest. Through the expanse of floor-to-ceiling windows she tracks an overstuffed garbage barrel as it is... Read More

Streaming Recognition
Professor TreaAndrea Russworm, of the English department, hosted a Pizza & Prof on November 9, discussing race, digital culture, and the technologies of protest. Russworm’s... Read More
Fostering Literacy and Fun
Who would have guessed that just a short drive down I-91 is the origination point of an entire creative universe? You may not know, so we’ll tell you so: Springfield,... Read More

Connections, Connections, Connections
Sharing the realities of a legal career, alumni met with current students in the Commonwealth Honors College Events Hall last Thursday at "Meet the Law." A the event, set up speed... Read More

On Friday, October 28, Susan Krauss Whitbourne, professor of psychological and brain sciences and director of the Office on National Scholarship Advisement, attended a reception... Read More

CHC students Haley Carchio '17 and Kacie Quinn '18 collaborated with UMass alumni Alex Kamb '15, Graham McLennan'16, Erica Desreuisseau '16, and Elena Nietupski '16 to win the 48... Read More
Discussing Du Bois Today
Whitney Battle-Baptiste, an Associate Professor in the Department of Anthropology and Director of the W. E. B. Du Bois Center at UMass Amherst, spoke to a crowded room of honors... Read More

Student Embarks on a "Culinary Crusade"
Spaghetti, quesadillas, and microwavable meals had been the standard dinner menu for Rachel Oestreicher ’16. When she first moved into her apartment in CHCRC, meals were limited... Read More

Cultivating Community
Students planted 500 daffodil bulbs throughout the Commonwealth Honors College Residential Community on Saturday, Oct. 15. For the participants, the weekend gardening project... Read More

The Power of Reaching Out
"My eyes popped out of my head when I saw that he was a member of Commonwealth Honors College, had a high GPA, and substantial internship experience and involvement in campus... Read More
Pizza and Prof: Discussing Gender Bias and Elections

Why is it so difficult to elect equivalent numbers of men and women to political office in the United States? Is sexism a factor in the 2016 presidential race? Seth Goldman,...

Read More

Source URL (retrieved on 02/09/2019 - 8:15pm):
https://www.honors.umass.edu/bragging-writes?page=4