Activism and Mindfulness: Grounding Ourselves within the Climate Crisis

Join this discussion and explore answers to questions like these!

How do we stay grounded within ourselves as we face the truths of the planetary crisis?

What are our inner resources for authentic hope while looking clear-eyed at current and looming devastating environmental issues?

How can working for political and social change in community deepen our commitment to creating a more sustainable planet?

Co-sponsored by the Office of Civic Engagement and Service-Learning, UMass Amherst Libraries, Psychology of Peace and Violence Program, and the Department of Environmental Conservation.
