The Charles J. Hoff Scholarship

The Charles J. Hoff Scholarship was established in 1998 at the University of Massachusetts Amherst campus to provide financial assistance to motivated students who are serious about their education and are in need of financial aid.

Eligibility Requirements

To be eligible, you must:

- Be a U.S. citizen or eligible non-citizen who is a permanent resident of Massachusetts
- Have been enrolled in Commonwealth Honors College for at least two semesters
- Have a minimum grade point average of 3.4
- Have unmet need of more than $4,000 (this may show up as loans in your current financial aid package).

Supply evidence of financial need by completing a Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). Go to the UMass Financial Aid website for filing details.

Benefits of the Scholarship

The Hoff Scholarship awards $2,000 to sophomores, juniors, and seniors who are enrolled in Commonwealth Honors College. Once chosen, Hoff recipients will receive the scholarship for a maximum of six semesters as long as they maintain enrollment in Commonwealth Honors College, continue to demonstrate financial need, and remain a resident of Massachusetts. In addition, the university provides a $2000 Hoff University Scholarship. The number of scholarships awarded will vary from year to year.

About Charles J. Hoff

Charles J. Hoff, a 1966 graduate of the University of Massachusetts Lowell, College of Management, is a highly successful entrepreneur who credits the education he received at Lowell with helping him attain success in business. He received his bachelor’s degree in industrial management, with minors in accounting and management, and later earned a master’s degree in engineering management from Northeastern University.

Mr. Hoff has been a senior vice president of operations for Bausch & Lomb and held senior management positions with Wang Laboratories, Polaroid, and Gillette. From 1983-86, Mr. Hoff was the president, CEO, and owner of ARL Analytical Instruments Company, which had over 100 million dollars in worldwide sales. He then became the owner, chairman, and CEO of Universal/Univis, Inc., a group of designer eye wear companies. Presently, he manages a private foundation and oversees the Hoff Family Partnership, which has over 50 members. He has been an entrepreneurial venture capitalist responsible for transforming several businesses on the verge of financial ruin into successful, profitable enterprises providing livelihoods for thousands of employees.

In 1992, Mr. Hoff received the University of Massachusetts Lowell’s Distinguished Alumni Award, given annually to honor graduates for significant contributions to a field of knowledge or exemplary public service. He was a member of the Board of Trustees of the University of Massachusetts from 1993 to 2002 and also served on the University of Massachusetts Foundation Board of Directors and the Board of Trustees of UMass Memorial Health Care, Inc. At the University of Massachusetts Lowell Commencement Ceremony in June of 2004, Mr. Hoff received an Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters. In 2007, Mr. Hoff solidified his support for highly motivated students with financial need by making a $3 million commitment, along with his wife, to expand and endow the Hoff Scholarship program, which benefits students on all five UMass campuses. The University's highest honor, the President's Medal, was presented to Mr. Hoff by President Jack Wilson in May of 2008.
