TO UNDERSTAND the nature of reality and our relationship to the universe, current education relies on science-based inquiry. Yet, we need a wider spectrum of human intelligences to make sense of our world.

This lecture EXPLORES how we may be entering an integral age that builds on different historical approaches to knowledge.

COMING OUT FOR CHANGE
Thursday, MARCH 15, 2012, 6:30 p.m., Campus Center Auditorium
M. V. LEE BADINGGETT
Professor, Economics
Director, Center for Public Policy and Administration